Martial Law Proclaimed

Rebels Fight In Jakarta Against Sukarno Forces

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP)—Fighting broke out in Indonesia's capital city of Jakarta today when rebel forces sought to recapture a communications building seized by loyal forces Friday, Indonesian radio reports said.

The broadcasts said troops of the elite Siliwangi Division swarmed into Jakarta from Bandung, reinforcing units of the division that had thwarted an attempted coup Friday.

There were reports of sporadic shooting. Antiaircraft guns were being set up in what appeared to be a precautionary move because of the uncertain loyalty of the air force, it was reported.

Jakarta radio said today martial law had been proclaimed and the capital was in a "state of war."

The broadcast followed an announcement that forces loyal to President Sukarno had smashed an attempt to seize power.

Martial law applied in the Jakarta area and in West Java, the radio said. It also reported fighting in Central Java where a colonel was reported defying orders to renounce support of the rebels.

The country's political situation remained unclear but the radio station last reported that Sukarno, 64, still was chief of state following a coup against him Thursday and a counter-coup by loyal army units Friday.

The radio reports gave no clue as to Sukarno's whereabouts but said he was safe and well. He appeared for the last time in public Thursday night.

Since early Friday, Sukarno's palace has been cordoned off by troops stationed several blocks away. Sukarno's palace guards were on duty despite the fact that Thursday's coup was led by their commander, Lt. Col. Untung.

There was confusion about what actually had taken place. The only available official information were communiques broadcast by Radio Jakarta.

No details were available on the fighting in Central Java. The newly appointed army chief, Maj. Gen. Suharto, was said to have sent troops to deal with the commander of the Semarang area who had declared himself in support of the rebels.

A broadcast said the commander, Col. Suherman, had been dishonorably discharged from the army. Semarang is about 150 miles east of Jakarta. Broadcasts said Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution, Sukarno's defense minister, had restored order in the capital after the attempted coup by Untung.

Untung, a relatively obscure officer, said he seized power to save Sukarno from a plot concocted by a council of generals. He did not name them but said the council was a "subversive body" backed by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency. The U.S. State Department denied the charge.

Untung seized the radio station early Friday and told the nation he was in power at the

Mayoral Bid To Feature Campaigns

11 Other Key Posts Will Be Sought In Local Government

Twenty-two candidates are preparing to put campaigns into high gear to seek 12 East Liverpool offices in the Nov. 2 general election — a month from today.

East Liverpool will name a mayor, Council president, treasurer, solicitor, three councilmen-at-large, four ward councilmen and a Municipal Court judge.

All the terms are for two years, beginning next Jan. 1, with the exception of the municipal judge, who serves six years.

THE REPUBLICANS and Democrats chose their slates at the primaries May 4, but some realignments have occurred among incumbents in the meantime because of the resignation of Mayor Merrill D. Hall, Republican, on Sept. 1.

Two political veterans are campaigning to take over the mayor's office for a full term.

They are Mayor George E. Willshaw, Republican, who moved up from the Council presidency to fill Hall's unexpired term, and Robert Owen, 775 Ohio Ave., Democrat, former safety service director, First Ward councilman and Council president.

Willshaw served four terms as a councilman-at-large before winning election to the presidency in 1963. A resident of Idaho Ave., he retired Sept. 1 after more than 35 years as a district supervisor for the Standard Oil Co.

Owen now is a partner in an East End used car business. He formerly operated a Mulberry St. hardware. Owen served as safety-service director under former Mayor Bert H. Goodball in 1961-63.

Willshaw won the GOP nomination for mayor in May, entering the primary after Hall decided not to seek a second term. He automatically moved up to

Bombs Kill 11 And Hurt 42 In Saigon

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Terrorist bomb explosions, hours apart, killed 11 Vietnamese in Saigon today. Among 42 persons wounded were three Americans.

In the air war, two U.S. A1E Skyraider planes collided during an attack on guerrilla ground gunners near An Khe and a U.S. military spokesman said the pilots and one passenger were killed.

The passenger was identified as Bernard Kolenberg, 38, a photographer for the Albany (N.Y.) Times-Union. On leave from his newspaper, he was working on an assignment for The Associated Press.

In Saigon, the first bomb went off at noon at the base of a steel utility pole near the Cong Hoa National Stadium, a training center for Vietnamese police officers.

Police said four children and five police officers were killed. Thirty-two persons were wounded.

The explosive was believed to have been a Claymore type

Talks Ended By Sec. Rusk And Gromyko

No Agreement Seen After 2 Top Aides Hold Dinner Event

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk wound up his talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko Friday night without reaching any specific agreement. But he said U.S.-Soviet contacts will be kept open for possible accords in the future.

Rusk spoke to newsmen after what he termed a pleasant and useful dinner discussion at the Soviet mission to the United Nations.

The session at the mid-Manhattan building lasted more than three hours. It was the second time the two had met during the current U.N. General Assembly session. No more meetings were scheduled. Rusk returns to Washington next week.

Rusk made it plain that despite the lack of any notable progress at this time, he expects a search for agreements with the Soviets to continue. He mentioned disarmament in particular.

"I hope that the two governments will keep in close contact, which I'm sure they will," the secretary of state said.

"We didn't come to any particular agreements on substance, but obviously we want to keep in touch to see if we can find any agreements in the future," he added.

Rusk said disarmament was the main topic Friday night, as it was at his first meeting with Gromyko Wednesday. He said Indonesia, India-Pakistan and

Gunman Slays Boxer In Columbus Robbery

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A holdup man shot and killed a 19-year-old Columbus service station attendant early today.

The victim was Chester Joseph Schowden, 118-pound novice class Golden Gloves Boxing champion in 1963.

A patrolman found Schowden lying in the open doorway of a Certified Oil Co. station at Grant Avenue and Main Street where he had started to work only Wednesday.

The victim leaves his 18-year-old widow and two children. Police said the widow is expecting a third child.

In Vodrey's Ruling

McDaniel Freed Of Both Charges

Safety Service Director Robert E. Vodrey Friday afternoon dismissed charges brought against Police Lt. William E. McDaniel by Chief A. J. Radeschi, who alleged the lieutenant was "under the influence of alcoholic beverages" and treated the public discourteously while on duty early the morning of Aug. 17.

Acting in his role as head of the safety department under Civil Service law, the director also dismissed the payless suspension which the chief had decreed for the lieutenant when bringing the charges on Sept. 20.

VODREY SAID he reached the decision after listening to testimony of 16 witnesses in two sessions that lasted a total of nearly six hours. He began the official inquiry into the chief's charges on Sept. 25, then continued it until Friday morning. The hearing was concluded just before noon yesterday. Vodrey then took the case under advisement, announcing his decision about 3 p.m. He heard approximately three hours of testimony in each of the two

Republicans React

Young GOP Fires Editor For Birch Society Links

WASHINGTON (AP)—The editor of a newsletter published by Washington Young Republicans has been ousted because he is a member of the John Birch Society.

The unpaid editor and his boss confirmed the move today. It came amid a barrage of GOP criticism aimed at the society.

The attack on Birchers began Wednesday when Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Kv., charged the society is trying to infiltrate the GOP and said its influence should be driven from the party.

Fran Westner of Greenbelt, Md., secretary of the District of Columbia Young Republicans, said she gave George H. Miller Jr., a letter Thursday night, telling him he was through as editor of the newsletter.

"Because of your past and or present involvement with the John Birch Society," Mrs. Westner wrote, "I feel the interests

Boycott Move Eyed By Cambodia Over Peking's Exclusion

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States remained confident today it can keep Communist China out of the United Nations another year despite efforts by Peking supporters to dramatize the issue.

Cambodia used a new tactic Friday. Ambassador Huor Sambath told the General Assembly that Cambodia would boycott the main U.N. committees because Red China's absence had eroded the world organization's ability to cope with critical issues.

In a policy speech peppered with denunciations of the United States, Sambath said no international issue can be resolved without the participation of Peking.

"The United Nations needs China more than China needs the United Nations," he said.

Echoing Thursday's argument by Albania — Red China's voice in the United Nations — Sambath denounced U.S. air strikes against North Viet Nam and urged the United Nations to take up what he called American intervention.

He said Cambodia would keep its seat in the General Assembly but would not take part in the work of assembly organs.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, answering attacks on Washington's Viet Nam policy, told the General Assembly Friday the key to peace in South-east Asia lies hidden in North Viet Nam. For this reason the

Negro Bishop Appointed At New Orleans By Pope

ROME (AP)—Appointment of the Very Rev. Harold R. Perry to be auxiliary bishop of New Orleans was announced here today. He is the first American Negro to be named a bishop of the Roman Catholic Church in 90 years.

Announcement of the appointment by Pope Paul VI was made jointly by the new archbishop of New Orleans, the Most Rev. Philip Hannan, and the former archbishop of New Orleans, the Most Rev. John Patrick Cody, now archbishop of Chicago.

The Most Rev. James Augustine Healy, son of an immigrant Irish planter and a Georgia slave girl, was the first American Negro to be named a bishop of the Catholic Church. He served as bishop of the Portland, Maine, diocese from 1875 to 1900.

Father Perry, 49, born in Lake Charles, La., was present at the news conference when his appointment was announced by the two archbishops.

"It was a surprise to me," he said. "I learned about it only yesterday."

Newsman asked whether Father Perry was the first U.S. Negro Roman Catholic bishop. Archbishops Cody and Hannan consulted some books and then Father Perry said:

"I am the first Negro bishop. The others did not consider themselves Negro." And Archbishop Hannan said, "We welcome the first American-born Negro bishop."

Father Perry, who served as rector of the Divine Word Major and Minor Seminary at Bay St. Louis, Miss., from 1958 to 1964, was in Rome to participate in consecration ceremonies of another newly named bishop from the Divine Word order, Carlo Lewis, auxiliary bishop of Panama.

A newsman asked Father Perry if a Negro would be an effective bishop in Louisiana.

"I was effective as a priest," he replied. "I expect to be accepted as a bishop."

Judge Rules On Soldier's Trial Rights

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP)—A U.S. District Court judge has ruled that a soldier is entitled to the same legal protection at a court-martial as a civilian tried in any court.

The ruling, on a soldier's application for a writ of habeas corpus, challenges traditional concepts of military justice and is called unique by Utah's U.S. attorney William T. Thurman.

Judge A. Sherman Christensen of the Utah District, in an opinion filed Friday, said soldiers tried by special courts-martial are entitled by the Constitution's Sixth Amendment to a trained lawyer as counsel.

Officers traditionally are appointed to act as defense or prosecution counsel in a court-martial, regardless of whether they are lawyers.

The uniform code of military justice requires bona fide lawyers as defense and prosecution

Prison Program

Outside Work Project Prepared

WASHINGTON (AP) — For hundreds of federal prisoners who yearn for something better, prison walls are about to become "something you return to at night" when other men are returning to their homes.

They will be given a chance to prepare a place for themselves in the nation's labor force in hopes of easing transition to freedom when their sentences are up — a shock that often leads them back to prison.

They will be turned loose from 10 federal institutions each morning, to travel to jobs, work beside free men and return voluntarily to their cells in the evening.

For every step of the way they will be on their own — unescorted, unwatched.

The "work relief program" for which the Federal Bureau of Prisons is now setting machinery into motion, is a provision of the prisoner rehabilitation law signed by President Johnson Sept. 10.

It marks another step in the long campaign to transform U.S. penal institutions from dark holes of confinement and despair to colonies where men who have strayed from the path of lawfulness can make a stab at redirecting their lives.

The law also provides for the establishment of an adult version of "halfway houses"—pre-release guidance centers—that have proved effective with young offenders in easing the transition from prison to private life.

Myrl E. Alexander, director of the Bureau of Prisons, said in an interview a surprising number of community organizations have indicated a willingness to accept workers from nearby institutions.

But he said there would be a gradual approach to the program.

"We're going to start very conservatively and build up some experience so that our mistakes will be held to a minimum," explained the white-haired veteran of two decades of prison work.

During early months of the work release program implementation will be limited to 10 institutions where minimum custody is the rule rather than the exception.

Eligible prisoners from the major security institutions such as those at Leavenworth, Kan., and Marion, Ill., may be transferred to prisons taking part in the program.

These are the institutions at Englewood, Colo.; El Reno, Okla.; Chillicothe, Ohio; Terminal Island, Calif.; Ashland, Ky.; Petersburg, Va.; the National Training School in Washington; Seagoville, Tex.; Milan, Mich.; and Danbury, Conn.

No notorious convicts imprisoned for crimes of violence will be in the program. Only prisoners who can use the experience in advance of their release or who can help support their families by using skills they already have will be considered.

The prisoners will stand ready to advance the men up to $100 for expenses until their first paycheck is received. They will also outfit them with their first suits of clothing until they can afford to buy their own.

The prisoners will pay all their own expenses, and their excess earnings other than those used for family support will be held for them until they are released from prison.

Alexander said he hopes the first batch of prisoners will begin the experiment in the next few weeks. Eventually, he said, not more than 5 per cent — or 1,000 to 1,500 federal prisoners — will take part in the program.

The law specifically provides that paid employment of federal prisoners may not result in the displacement of employed workers. Nor may it be used where there is a labor surplus in the area.

But neither may the prisoners be exploited. They must be paid the going rates for whatever work they do.

monthly. The organization has 900 members.

Mrs. Westner said she decided Monday night to oust Miller. By virtue of his editorship, he also was a director of the organization.

She said she was not satisfied with Miller's editing, and complained he had written editorials critical of some Republican viewpoints.

"There was criticism of other party members instead of the Democrats," she complained.

Mrs. Westner said she knew of Miller's Birch Society membership. "But I needed someone who knew how to do the job," she said.

Miller had been editor-in-chief for more than a year.

Sen. Morton renewed his attack on the society Friday saying "this group seems more dedicated to the defeat of Republicans than Democrats."

"I don't think we have any for a clandestine organization engaged in character assassination," he said.

But Morton said he believes there are more Democrats than Republicans in the organization. In Columbus, Ohio, former Republican Sen. William F. Knowland of California said the Birch Society is not a Republican organization, and never has claimed to be.

"They do claim to have as many Democrats as Republicans in the organization," he said.

Knowland added he knows of no way either political party can purge people from its membership lists.

In Chicago, Gov. George Romney of Michigan said the Republican party must repudiate the Birch Society. He suggested expulsion of Birchers who try to use the GOP for the society's ends.

"As a minority party," said the governor, "we cannot afford divisiveness."

Asked at a news conference why he does not approve of the society, Romney said:

"The John Birch Society as an organization uses methods of infiltration and subversive tactics we associate with other secret organizations such as the Communists."

United States must continue defending South Viet Nam from the threat of Red engulfment, he said.

Goldberg recalled that the United States had repeatedly expressed willingness to enter "negotiations with any government at any place and any time without conditions on a formula for bringing an honorable end to the Viet Nam war."

The only responses, he said, were "contemptuous rejection" from Peking and unacceptable conditions from Hanoi, the North Vietnamese capital.

U.S. sources are convinced that recent warlike statements emanating from Peking, and its open moves to block U.N. efforts to restore peace between India and Pakistan, will kill any chance Red China might have of getting into the organization this year.

The manifesto by Red Chinese Defense Minister Lin Biao proclaiming a doctrine of revolutionary war around the world and Foreign Minister Chen Yi's statement deriding the United Nations as a bargaining place between "U.S. imperialists" and the Soviets have provided the Americans with plenty of ammunition.

Every time the China question has come before the United Nations in recent years, Peking has committed some overt act that seemed designed to block her entry.

In 1962, China thrust across the Indian border. The following year she made threatening gestures over Viet Nam and last year, she threatened to send men as well as arms to aid the Viet Cong.

Lisbon Youth Hurt

Traffic In County Leaves 9 Injured

Nine persons, including six in a two-car collision, were injured in four traffic accidents Friday, the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon reports.

Irvin Huff Jr., 18, of the Trinity Church Rd., Lisbon, who was badly hurt in a one-car crash, has been transferred to Youngstown South Side Hospital.

HE SUFFERED multiple lacerations of the head and a skull fracture when his car rammed a utility pole about 6 a.m. on County Rd. 410, a mile and a half south of Salem.

He first was taken to Salem City Hospital and then moved to Youngstown.

The two-car collision injuring six occurred at the intersection of Route 164 and Fairfield Township Rd., two miles north of Route 558, at 2:15 p.m.

The crash involved a 1965 coach operated by Sherry Elaine Rice, 19, of Leetonia R. D. 1 and a 1962 sedan driven by Raymond L. Todd, 75, of Leetonia R. D. 2. Officers said Todd pulled into the girl's path at the intersection.

Miss Rice suffered a laceration of the forehead. Passengers in her car injured were two sisters, Theresa Rice, 3, who had multiple lacerations of the head and face, and Pamela Rice, 5, who suffered lacerations of the cheek and nose, and a brother, Glenn Rice, 2, who suffered a laceration of the lip.

Todd suffered bruises of the abdominal wall and a passenger, Florence Todd, 65, of the same address, had a bruised right leg. All were taken to Salem City Hospital.

A CAR operated by James Stewart Parson, 39, of Youngstown and a tractor-trailer rig driven by Charles Richard Emery, 38, of East Palestine were involved in a collision at 7:45 a.m. on Route 14, two and three-tenths miles east of Columbiana.

Emery was westbound and made a left turn into the path of Parson's car, officers said. Parson was taken to Salem City Hospital. Emery was cited for failure to yield the right-of-way.

William Powers, 62, of Richardson Ave., Negley, suffered severe lacerations of the right eyelid and forehead and a possible concussion when his 1960 station wagon rammed an embankment off the left side of the road on Route 7, two miles north of the Route 30 intersection, at 3:50 p.m. Friday.

Officers said he lost control on a curve. The left front end and windshield of the vehicle were damaged. He was taken to City Hospital, where he was in "fairly good" condition today.

TWO WELLSVILLE girls escaped injury when the car in which they were riding rammed guard rails along Grant St., a tenth of a mile south of Lisbon Friday night at 10:30.

Officers said the driver was Mary Vaness, 19, of 1811 Chester Ave. She lost control on a curve and went off the left side of the highway. Her passenger was Sherry Sue Ward, 19, of 306 18th St.

A car driven by Retta Louise Beight, 31, of East Palestine R. D. 1 hit the left rear fender of a parked car owned by Jerom Simko, 72, of Poland at 8:10 a.m. Friday on Route 14, a tenth of a mile west of Route 170. The woman was making a right turn, officers said.

quest without comment. The union had appealed a lower federal court's refusal to halt court action in Lowndes.

The American Civil Liberties Union wanted the lower court to halt the trials until action could be taken to get more Negroes on the Lowndes County jury rolls.

U.S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach said in Midland, Tex., the investigation into the slaying will continue. The victim, Jonathan Daniels, was shot down in front of a small store at Hayneville.

In Montgomery, Ala., 25 miles from Hayneville, federal voting examiners were ordered to take over voter registration. The Alabama state capital became the first metropolitan area so designated under the 1965 Voting Rights Act.

The American Civil Liberties Union announced plans for what it called a "major drive in the Deep South to end exclusion of Negroes from jury service." The group said the campaign would be called "Operation Southern Justice."

mine, which can be aimed to fire pellets like a shotgun.

A taxi loaded with a bomb exploded in front of a Saigon theater and near three American military billets tonight, killing two Vietnamese passersby and wounding 10 other people, including two Americans.

U.S. military police officers at the scene said the bomb was being carried under the rear seat of the small taxi and that it apparently exploded prematurely in the middle of the street.

Neither of the two wounded Americans was in serious condition.

The explosion took place about 100 yards from three multiple-story military billets and about 100 yards from the U.S. Navy hospital, one of the major American medical facilities in Saigon.

Some windows were reported to have been shattered in the U.S. installations, but no one was injured there.

Two U.S. planes were lost on missions Friday.

The spokesman said the planes that crashed today were being fired on from the ground near An Khe. One plane was on a strafing run trying to eliminate the ground fire and the other was on a napalm run.

No parachutes were seen and it was presumed that the three occupants of the planes were killed, the spokesman said. The planes were based at Qui Nhon.

The aircraft reported lost Friday were an Air Force F100 and an F4C.

The F100 was on a bombing attack 105 miles west of Saigon and did not pull out of a dive. No chute was observed and the pilot was presumed killed.

The F4C went down about 75 miles northwest of Hanoi in North Viet Nam after apparently being struck by ground fire.

Two parachutes were seen and the two crewmen were reported missing.

The plane was one of 14 Phantom jets and 12 Thunderchiefs conducting missions over North Viet Nam.

In ground action near Rach Gia, about 100 miles south of Saigon, a battalion-sized operation of South Vietnamese troops reported finding quantities of Viet Cong arms and ammunition Friday.

The South Vietnamese captured eight Viet Cong and 12 suspects. Casualties were described as light.

U.S. Marines in the Da Nang area reported killing 10 Viet Cong Friday and capturing two. Marine casualties were described as light.

Twenty U.S. Air Force Phantoms and Supercubers conducted seven armed missions over the Than Hoa and Binh areas.

The carrier Midway launched about 95 sorties Friday. In the day's most significant action, eight planes struck at a Viet Cong concentration 50 miles north of Ninh Hoa and destroyed 42 structures and damaged 10. All aircraft returned safely.

Four children and five police officers were killed by a terrorist mine explosion in a Saigon street today, police reported. Thirty-two persons were wounded.

The bombing was presumed to have been the work of Viet Cong agents and the main target was thought to be the Vietnamese police. The explosion went off just outside a stadium where police officers had been training.

No Americans were reported hurt.

The Viet Cong again said it would take reprisals against U.S. prisoners if the South Vietnamese government continues to execute pro-Communist Vietnamese.

A Viet Cong statement broadcast by Hanoi radio demanded the immediate release of Le Hong Tu, a young Vietnamese student whom the Viet Cong claimed was to have been executed in Saigon last Thursday.

Five persons were executed as murderers and rapists by a South Vietnamese government firing squad in Saigon market place before dawn Friday. The sixth execution was canceled. It was not known in Saigon whether he was a criminal or a Viet Cong but Hanoi radio claims the sixth man was Le Hong Tu.

suspension is likewise dismissed."

Law required the director to conduct an official inquiry into the charges, with the right to affirm, dismiss or modify the chief's charges.

The chief's original order suspended McDaniel without pay, effective Sept. 27. But he remained on duty throughout because the director held the first phase of his inquiry on Sept. 25, then continued it until yesterday. The effectiveness of the suspension order was held up pending the outcome of the hearing.

IN ISSUING his suspension order, the chief noted that it came more than a month after the date on which the offense allegedly occurred. But he explained that McDaniel had been absent on vacation during most of the intervening time. The chief said he did not feel it would have been fair to the accused man to take suspension action while he was on vacation.

The charge alleged specifically that the offense occurred between 3 and 6 a.m. on Aug. 17. McDaniel's usual duty is as commanding officer of the mid-night to 8 a.m. shift.

Since the director's hearing was held behind closed doors, no data was made public on the facts on which the chief based his suspension order on or McDaniel's defense.

In the hearing yesterday, Voderhey heard 12 witnesses, many of them officers who were on duty at the time of the alleged offense.

Southeast Asia were not among Friday night's subjects. The latter two matters came up at the Wednesday session.

Gromyko brought up the German question under the heading of European security. U.S. sources said he advanced an old Moscow proposal for thinning out forces on both sides of the East-West border.

The two seemed as far apart as ever on this. Rusk was said to have turned Gromyko's question around, stating that the United States favors real security through a long-range political settlement — reunification of Germany.

fill the unexpired term when Hall resigned.

FLOYD L. MURRAY subsequently moved up to the Council presidency as Willshaw's successor, but he is running in the election for a third term as First Ward councilman.

His tenure as Council president will run out Dec. 31. A Democrat, Murray sought to retain the First Ward seat for the balance of 1965, but Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper ruled his succession to the higher office was automatic under the law.

Seeking the full term as Council president are Ernest A. Lowe, 410 Wedgewood St., the Republican nominee, and Arch H. Smith, 925 McKinnon Ave., the Democratic nominee.

Lowe is vice president of the Mason Color & Chemical Works, Inc. An employee of the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co., Smith sought the same post unsuccessfully in 1963.

Murray's opponent for the First Ward seat is Richard W. Carter, 1180 Erie St., a Republican. For 18 years an employee of the Globe Brick Co., Carter is president of Local 647, United Brick & Clay Workers.

William C. Rea of Erie St., a Democrat, was elected by Council Sept. 20 to fill Murray's unexpired term that will run out Dec. 31. But Rea does not figure in the election.

FOR THE first time in many years, there's a general election contest for the post of city solicitor.

Joseph W. Cooper of North St., the Democratic incumbent, is bidding for an eighth term. He is opposed by Atty. John B. McDonald, 434 Thompson Ave., who held the solicitor's post from 1947 through 1950. Cooper has won his last several terms without opposition in the general election.

Two incumbent councilmen-at-large are in the field of six seeking the three seats.

They are Robert W. Sample, 606 McKinnon Ave., a Republican bidding for his fourth consecutive term, and Norman R. Bucher, 818 Bradshaw Ave., Democrat asking a second full term.

Both Sample and Bucher are employees of Crucible. Bucher is city Democratic chairman.

The other Republican at-large candidates are John H. Parsons of Curry St., vice president of the Parsons Coal Co. and chairman of the City Park Commission, and Paul H. Zehnder, 1323 Fairmont St., WOHI news director and a member of the Health Board.

The other Democratic candidates are Frank P. Duffy, 1623 Holliday St., veteran potter, a former councilman-at-large and an unsuccessful candidate for mayor two years ago, and James A. Moore, 1978 Lisbon St., an electrician at Crucible and operator of the Midway Diner on the River Rd.

Moore sought the mayor's post four years ago. Duffy served seven years as Trades and Labor Council president.

Donald S. Hancock, 1450 Pennsylvania Ave., was defeated in the primaries in his bid for a third term in a council-at-large seat. He is a Democrat.

A WOMAN is the Republican nominee for the Second Ward Council seat. She is Mrs. Donna Richards Wilson, 1029 Ambrose Ave., a former teacher, now a housewife and mother of two. Mrs. Richards is running against the Democratic incumbent, James F. Cunningham, 149 Reynolds St. A Crucible employee, Cunningham is asking a second term.

In the Third Ward, Councilman Donald E. Smith of Woodbine Ave., the Democratic incumbent, is bidding for a third term. He is a Crucible employee. The Republican nominee is James E. Lowe, 806 Lincoln Ave., an employee of the Mackintosh-Hemphill Division of the E. W. Bliss Co. in Midland. Lowe sought the same post in 1956.

A former councilman and a political newcomer are bidding for the Fourth Ward seat, which William E. Davis, 713 Edwards Ave., will give up on Dec. 31.

The nominees are Robert B. Laughlin, 306 W. 6th St., a Democrat who held the Fourth Ward seat in 1961-62, and Harold R. Maylone, 1073 Dresden Ave., Republican, a TV serviceman at the Smith & Phillips Co.

Davis, a Democrat, running for a second term, was defeated in the May primaries.

One incumbent on each ticket is assured of election for lack of opposition.

Treasurer Bert A. Dawson of Lisbon St., a Republican, is asking his 12th term. Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff, Democrat, is seeking a second six-year term.

Since write-in votes are not permitted at a general election when the number of candidates equals the number to be elected, both are assured of new terms. Dawson is dean of boys at the high school.

Judge Chertoff was nominated by the Democratic party in May, but his name will appear on a nonpartisan judicial ballot at the general election.

counsel in a general court-martial, but a lower court-martial does not carry this requirement.

Pvt. James E. Stapley of Salt Lake City pleaded guilty two months ago at a special court-martial to passing eight bad checks and using disrespectful language to a noncommissioned officer. The court-martial was held here at Ft. Douglas.

Stapley said his military counsel had recommended the guilty plea. He was sentenced to 60 days imprisonment. A fine of $55 a month for six months was commuted providing he pays back $130 in bad checks.

Two weeks ago Stapley got a civilian attorney, James P. Cowley of Salt Lake City. Cowley applied for a writ of habeas corpus, a legal tool used to free persons unlawfully held in custody. Stapley was freed after 58 days of confinement.

Finishing touches were put on the Pope's crowded 14-hour schedule that includes a meeting with President Johnson, a plea for world peace before the United Nations General Assembly and a public Mass in Yankee Stadium.

In addition, the Pope will pray at St. Patrick's Cathedral, meet with Protestant and Jewish leaders and stop at the Vatican Pavilion of the New York World's Fair.

FALL AND YOUR SEWAGE SYSTEM

Heavy fall rains bring many problems, not the least of which is the far-reaching damage to sewage systems.

Correctly designed septic tanks are constructed according to the daily flow of water and sewage, the gallonage capacity being at least equal to the amount entering in a 24-hour period. This is to allow for the solids to settle out so that digestion can take place in the bottom. An excess to the designed flow can be catastrophic to any system.

What happens then, when flooding occurs? Water-laden ground forces water into pipes, and through cracks in walls and covers of septic tanks... water pours through manhole covers, and vents, creating an agitation which prevents settling. This increase in flow, therefore, carries large quantities of undigested materials to the drainfields and cesspools... areas which are already straining to dispose of tremendous quantities of liquid become clogged with solids, and even less effective. Often such drainage areas overflow and become health hazards to both humans and livestock.

How Sea-Cal Enzymes Help:

Enzymes are not limited to working on solids that are settled — they travel where water will carry them — constantly breaking down proteins, fats, and starches, wherever they may be. Therefore in overloaded and flooded systems, Sea-Cal continues its work right into the wells, cesspools, and drainfields — freeing the ground of pore-logging solids and keeping drainage at its peak.

After the floods have subsided, most systems have lost the nucleus of their digestion, which is the bacteria, and often take months to get started. Sea-Cal contains 80,000,000 anaerobic bacteria, and 60,000,000 aerobic bacteria, in each gram, and there being 28 grams to the ounce (with each bacteria reproducing itself many times a day), this means that a "seeding" with a few ounces of Sea-Cal will regenerate even the most dormant system.

Bedazzled And Bemused

Detroit again is bedazzling our eyes and ears with the magnificence of its new beauties. And beauties they are: fast, sleek, shiny, low-slung, daring in design. Through newspapers, radio and television our go-go appetites are being whetted. But if the family budget can't be stretched any more, it's pure agony.

However, there is a ray of sunshine amidst the emotional gloom. With pockets empty, we can join the legions who troop through auto showrooms, making sounds like potential customers.

We can climb behind the wheel. We can fondle the gadgets, caress the upholstery, maybe give the horn a timid toot, while all the time being crooned to by an eager salesman.

We can cram our pockets with brochures. We can kick a few tires. We can haggle over prices. The bravest and boldest of us might go so far as to take one of the beauties out for a spin.

But our moment of stolen glory will end if the salesman begins to suspect he has a dead fish on the line and dashes off for a likelier prospect.

Oh well, it was fun.

By the way, what would a new ring job and brake relining cost for the old bucket of bolts? Hm. Maybe, just maybe.

The Big House

One by one, the mansions built in earlier days to signify great wealth are crumbling under the iron ball and crowbar.

The only survivors are the great houses taken over by charitable organizations as bequests, and their days are numbered, too. Even without capital cost, prestige palaces are too expensive to operate and maintain.

In the Old World and occasionally in the New World, they can be converted into museums and paid for by collecting admissions. But except for those taken over by government and turned into official memorials, monuments, parks and the like, the jig is up.

Eventually, the piles of stone and brick are claimed by time and weather. The cost of renovation is prohibitive.

A new way of life is in vogue. There is no place in it for rambling edifices that can be lived in only one room at a time anyway.

Even in the plushiest palaces of old, grandees lived in only one place at a time. Family quarters were relatively cozy — about the size of modern-day multiple-room apartments in de luxe apartment houses.

The big house in the United States wore out its welcome when families started to be smaller; when income taxes started to be larger; when the world shrank and the means of seeing it expanded.

High wages in factories and multiplying job opportunities drained off hired girls, maids, yardmen, housekeeper couples, butlers, cooks, cleaning women and laundresses.

Artisans became worthy not only of their hire but overtime.

Real estate taxes climbed.

When the time came to pass along the mansion, the succeeding generation ran away and hid. It didn't want to live in a mansion. It wanted to live in a ranch house, a mobile home, an apartment.

The succeeding generation was bored with vaulted ceilings, massive doors, bosomy murals, two-ton chandeliers and unheatable space.

It was bored by traditions, ghosts and portraits of ancestors.

It did not want to walk a mile to the nearest bathroom, or sit down to lunch in the lobby of O'Hare Airport.

The succeeding generation had ideas of its own about abundant living, and none of them had anything to do with stone walls, 1,500 varieties of flowers and leaking roofs.

It is customary to sigh when anything old falls under the sledgehammer blows of wreckers — but skip the sighing and dwell, instead, on emancipation from drafty, poorly ventilated, poorly heated and hard-to-maintain edifices that betokened possession of more wealth than judgment, more vanity than taste.

Nick: "Right now it is 50 thou, but it could go higher."

Eskey: "Is that in dollars or lire?"

Nick: "No, no. Drachmas! That would add up to 300 thou obols, and that's a lot of obols. You'll make a potful on the residuals, too."

Eskey: "I'd rather have it in dollars or lire."

Nick: "Eskey ole pal, be reasonable. How we gonna get that kinda loot?"

Eskey: "A cat has to be careful these days. First them drachmas would be taxable. The dollars and lire would be free and clear. And then, I may have to blow the country any time and could use foreign cash."

Nick: "But Eskey you didn't even hear who I have for the leads — Marc and Cleopatra."

Eskey: "Who you got for the heavy?"

Nick: "Hold your hat, baby. I got Caesar, himself, who else?"

Eskey: "If you can raise the ante, give me a call tomorrow. I gotta hang up now, my other phone is ringing."

I read where no matter what happens to automobile prices the poor and the intellectuals will continue to buy that compact-compact foreign car, such as you have, and this made me wonder.

What I wondered was whether you were poor or intellectual. The best I could come up with was that you were six of one and half a dozen of the other.

Faithfully yours,
MAX

By Truman Twill

Cotton Corners

Dear Nephew: It had crossed my mind and the minds of millions of others that the Ecumenical Council was in danger of backfiring.

When it began, the purpose was to open windows, to use the expression of Pope John XXIII. But as it went along—particularly after Pope John was succeeded by Pope Paul—stand-patters seemed to be closing the windows.

This reversion to the Old World influence that had made it difficult for the Roman Catholic Church to stay in step with Catholicism in the United States threatened to do injury to what everybody had agreed was a worthy cause.

The question was whether the vision of Pope John could be blotted out by the obstructionism of the elements he had been trying to move off dead center.

The question for Americans was whether the influence of their own progressive Catholics could be blunted in the Ecumenical Council by doctrinaire forces of the Old World with no knowledge or appreciation of 20th century thought and 20th century problems in the New World.

A momentous thing had happened in the United States in the 1960 presidential election. John F. Kennedy made his campaign meaningful by declaring there could be no issue between him as a Roman Catholic and his countrymen, whatever they happened to be. He spoke for religious liberty for himself and all others.

He neutralized long-standing animosity against his faith by non-Catholics who had been led to believe they were regarded as outside the pale of religious respectability by Catholics.

He disarmed the American people who had feared Vatican influence over a Catholic president by saying forthrightly he could not be dictated to by anything but his own conscience. He clinched his claim to personal independence by opposing the position of American Catholics on public money for parochial schools.

Everything he had done was in danger of being undone if the Ecumenical Council failed to live up to its advance billing. It was to be a showdown between modernists and anti-modernists. The modernists had to prove their strength.

That's why it was so important when modernists gave 9-1 initial approval to a religious liberty document that had been bitterly opposed by anti-modernists.

It was a test of strength between opposing factions in one of the world's most influential institutions. If anti-modernists had won—if they had mustered significant strength—their influence would have been perpetuated.

As it turned out, their inability to show strength has reopened the windows that Pope John opened. In a world so closely interrelated and integrated that everything has a bearing and influence on everything else, all of us who believe in progress must welcome this decision.

It cannot possibly do anything but help the Roman Catholic Church. But its great effect will be on non-Catholics, finally relieved of a handicap to their tolerance. They have been informed that the tolerance they are asked to give to Catholics is going to be returned in kind. It never was that way before—not officially.

COTTON CORNERS UNCLE GEORGE

The Time And Place?

Labor Skills Aid U.N. Delegate

By Victor Riesel

Behind the tightly closed doors of the New York Hotel Commodore's East Ballroom, Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg talked to several hundred of his former employers.

Clients would be the more proper word. They were the top leaders of American labor. They were, and are, his "constituency," though his clientele today is the American people.

He talked off-the-record. But there still are leaks in this city. Arthur talked to his former labor colleagues at a sealed luncheon a few hours after the long night when he, as president of the U.N. Security Council, had won an Indian-Pakistani cease-fire pact.

HIS THESIS was that he could not have won this pause in the swift rush towards world war without the skill he had developed in a thousand critical last-hour labor negotiations.

He averred that every international union president in the luncheon room could understand what had happened. There was, for example, the very critical moment, after long and tense haranguing, when one important diplomat representing a key nation in the Security Council, informed the U.S. ambassador that he was leaving. He was sleepy. He wanted his rest.

The council had been arguing all night. It now was 2:30 a.m. Quietly "Arthur" said in effect:

If you feel your sleep is worth more than the peace of the world, go. But as president of the Security Council I feel that it's absolutely necessary that I stay up all night if needed to bring about the end of the suffering of the people of India and Pakistan.

AMBASSADOR GOLDBERG, eager to keep the council going until word came from the Pakistan U.N. delegation and foreign minister, then added:

However, if you go, it will be necessary for me to make public in a full-dress speech tomorrow why you felt it necessary to leave, and the U.S. representative refused to sleep while there was a world war in the making. The sleep-eager diplomat looked at the man who had ridden out hundreds of labor crises in locked rooms for exhaustive nights on end—and decided to stay. At 4 a.m. the Security Council won the cease-fire agreement.

"Arthur" told the labor leaders that afternoon, Wednesday, Sept. 22, that the tough labor-management infighting of past years gave him that extrasensory perception needed to recognize the moment when both sides were making their "final" offer speech.

That was the crucial moment in the early a.m. just before the strike deadline when both sides appeared inflexible—as those of us who have been inside labor-management negotiation rooms know.

EVERY INTERNATIONAL union chief, Mr. Goldberg said, is aware of the significance of that set of ultimatums. It's the moment when both sides appear most intractable, when both sides want no strike, when both sides want to be taken off the hook.

The American ambassador to the U.N. said he noted the "last speech moment" so famous inside labor. He negotiated with each side separately, applying the technique now which he used so adroitly as secretary of labor.

He got the agreement. Nor is he the only one in the U.N. with such labor background. He disclosed that he had asked labor's own roving ambassador, Irving Brown, executive director of the African-American Labor Center, to check on the number of former trade unionists who are now members of diplomatic missions.

There are many. They are skilled, shrewd, tough bargainers. And if I'm permitted an aside, they are knowledgeable in the tactics of Communist operatives. Many of their unions and countries had to fight off Soviet, Chinese and Castro infiltrators as did Arthur Goldberg in his old days as national counsel to the CIO.

IN REPLY to outside criticism that he had no base of strength, the U.S. ambassador asked his critics to cross any street with him. His base, he said, is the American people—hackies, truckdrivers, chambermaids, building service workers—the people, the biggest base of all.

And management, too, which always respected him as a tough but clean fighter. Everybody calls him "Arthur." And he loves it.

He can speak to his clientele now, the people, because he no longer wears judicial robes.

The labor leaders cheered him. And some said aloud, though not to him, that he'd make a great vice-presidential candidate.

Down Through The Years

From The Review Files

THIRTY YEARS AGO—The Newell Bridge & Railway Co. discontinued operations over the Washington-6th St. loop with its Newell to East Liverpool trolleys.

Mrs. Ruth Parsons who installed as president of the Auxiliary of American Legion Post 4.

Mrs. Alice Wollam was elected president and Lester Hickman vice president of the Calcutta PTA.

TWENTY YEARS AGO—Sixteen cars of a westbound Pennsylvania Railroad Co. freight train were derailed about a mile and a half east of Salineville. Sale of the property of American Legion Post 4 on Dresden Ave. was announced, Post 4 having taken up temporary quarters at 520 Broadway.

TEN YEARS AGO — Volunteer firemen battled a stubborn blaze for two hours at the home of William Viemier in West Point.

The temperature jumped to a comfortable 70 degrees in the district, then skidded to a chilly 45 over night.

Letter To Editor

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

I would like to let you know that there were antennas broken from both West Virginia and Ohio cars at the Oak Glen-East Liverpool football game last Friday.

If you noticed, all Oak Glen fans stayed until the clock ran out. But many Potters left after Oak Glen's first touchdown. So it would be hard to accuse anyone! Oak Glen does not have a previous record for vandalism, so it would be hard to say who was to blame.

And I would also like to add that we do not appreciate our new nickname you have given us as "Upset Kids." As I have been taught, kids are goats. And I do not feel that Oak Glen students are goats.

BARBARA REED
Chester

(Editor's Note — The above letter is in answer to a complaint of an East Liverpool resident over what he termed "vandalism" after the East Liverpool-Oak Glen game. The expression "Upset Kids" was ours, appearing in a sports story in connection with the Oak Glen team. Just for the record, it was used with the greatest respect in reference to a fine bunch of boys who achieved what we felt was a major upset. It wasn't intended to get anybody's goat.)

A Turbulent Time

By James Marlow

Immigration Act—Part Of A Period

WASHINGTON The new immigration act may look like just one more item in the long list of accomplishments by the 1965 Congress, but it is more than that.

It is part and product of a turbulent time — the past 20 years — which future historians will probably consider the most revolutionary period in the history of man.

In those 20 years:

The great colonial powers, exhausted by war, surrendered their possessions and men everywhere and of all races developed a sense of freedom, or nationalism, or in many places, if not all, an appreciation for the dignity of man.

The United States was swept along in this global revolution in thinking and gradually and grudgingly, particularly in the South, began to undo centuries of segregated injustice to Negroes.

The immigration bill passed Thursday by both houses, ending 41 years of limiting immigration by nationality, is simply an extension of the new, but far from complete, American revolution against discrimination.

It has a more immediately practical side, of course, since it is hardly intelligent for the United States to discriminate among nations when it is trying to persuade as many as possible to be friends, if not allies.

The world itself has passed beyond the simple primitive days of unsophisticated contests between nations, although they persisted, and now was in the great contest between ideologies.

Meanwhile 117 nations through the United Nations for the first time truly, if not always, began to cooperate to preserve peace although they have yet to prove they can try it indefinitely or achieve it absolutely.

It was in these 20 years that nations developed a weapon of war, the hydrogen bomb, so ghastly it may scare all of them out of making big war again, although this, too, has yet to be proved.

And if it is proved it will be more a tribute to fear than to reason. Always, of course, the success of the new experiences and experiments depends upon the common sense of man, which unfortunately has been pitifully anthropoidal and even fiendish through all the centuries.

And since 1945 man has entered space and peeped around and no one now on earth can predict where this will lead afoot, aloft or aloft in relations between men or even worlds.

Any man now alive, because of what 20 years have wrought, is hardly more than a rubber band stretching between the long past and the infinite future, unable to imagine what lies ahead or whether he will snap and disappear.

In this time nations still intervened in one another's affairs with troops and guns although learning to give aid to one another and to be indignant at intervention, always depending on who was doing it.

Wars were just as terrible as ever but, because they were better covered than ever before by the news media, they made men everywhere shudder more.

And in these 10 years the United States, like others, was having multiple revolutions within itself: in social welfare, political representation, automation, labor relations, education, religious tolerance, medicine and crime.

So, while the immigration act definitely leads into the mainstream of the mid-century life of the United States and the world, it is still only one of many tributaries.

Shriver's 'Hot Lines'

By Dom Bonafede

Sargent Shriver's desk holds two "hot line" telephone boxes; one plugs him into the Office of Economic Opportunity and the other to the Peace Corps. Each box carries 24 buttons. And each button represents an aide under his command.

The two boxes might well be imprinted on the Shriver escutcheon as symbols of his dual government registry.

"All I have to do is press one of these buttons and I can immediately get anyone of my assistants," he recently explained. "Organizational experts tell me I shouldn't have it like this, but it's the way I like to operate, fast and direct."

Many of Shriver's admirers, as well as his critics, maintain his penchant for instant communications has created an "administrative shambles" at the anti-poverty headquarters.

A FORMER top OEO official said, "There's a lot of griping over there because of the manner in which Sarge operates. Most organizations are constructed horizontally, everyone knows where he fits in the chain of command, who his immediate superior is and what he is supposed to be doing. But Shriver has a vertical organization. Nobody knows where he stands. The guy under you may be working on something you don't even know about. As a result, you feel insecure. Like you're out of touch with reality."

He conceded, nonetheless, that Shriver was a "genius" at getting things done. Another source close to Shriver half-jokingly referred to his organizational chart as being "circular."

"I heard the same thing at the Peace Corps," Shriver remarked, "only there we were accused of 'creative confusion.'"

"There are too many people who are content to exist in boxes. We can't attract bright people to come here to plug a hole and do the same stale things. My feeling is we have to create new social devices. This takes imagination and perhaps some unconventional action. I play it like a good half-back, when I see an opening I go through it. You have to be supple and move fast."

AFTER BEING in operation for a year, Shriver is convinced that the anti-poverty campaign has made important breakthroughs.

"The program is accepted now but when the idea first was suggested it was called a political gimmick and grandiose. Sixty per cent of the experts said it never would work. Others said that the South never would accept an integrated program, but that turned out to be a canard. In our first year we directly reached three million poor Americans, and have gone into 114 out of 183 of the poorest counties in the country those with less than $700 per capita income annually."

He freely acknowledges that the criticism and troubles which have befallen the program are rooted in politics.

"Nobody, including governors and mayors, like the idea of somebody moving into what they think belongs to them," he commented.

He discounted forecasts, however, that limited veto power given governors by Congress over anti-poverty projects might bedevil him.

"Out of 5,000 applications last year only four were vetoed by governors," he said. Two of four were imposed by Gov. Tom Connally, of Texas, and Gov. George Wallace, of Alabama, both of whom have expressed biting criticism of the federal program.

RUMORS PERSIST that Shriver will give up either the OEO or Peace Corps directorship, or run for office in Maryland.

He steadily contends that he will remain at both his present posts until the President indicates otherwise.

"I didn't volunteer for either job," he said. "I'm not trying to hold on to either job. I have even suggested specific persons who are well-qualified to take over either position. I'm here because the President wants me. These two jobs are the most interesting in Washington."

The first year for the OEO was considered a period of experimentation and adjustment. The coming year is widely accepted as being crucial for the anti-poverty program.

"The feedback from around the country will soon start coming in on how well the program is doing and results of the evaluation will determine its future course," one former OEO official stated. With his customary infectious enthusiasm, Sargent Shriver sees nothing but good ahead.

"We learned that the bugaboos and hobgoblins we were warned about just don't exist," he said.

Round Restaurant Highlights Washington St. Mall In This Sketch Of A Planner's Proposal.

It's a long journey from a planner's conception of a city's future and the reality of today. The East Liverpool of 1985, for example, could be a community of elegant, modern buildings and homes — new or remodeled — with free-flowing traffic, ample parking, splendid shops and stores, green parklets and tree-lined shopping sites and an education-culture center.

That's the way Daniel Zeigler, planner for Carroll V. Hill Associates, sees the downtown area after completing a study of the central business district as part of the city's comprehensive plan.

BUT IMPLEMENTING this future development — or any other which the city's planners and leaders may eventually undertake — will require the cooperation and interest of property owners, businessmen and industrialists, plus adequate financial resources and support from the government, and a spirit of initiative and progress from those who reside in and outside the city.

These were the ingredients which brought about the so-called "renaissance" of Pittsburgh, one time dirty, cluttered and ingrown "Smoky City" which has emerged as a symbol of community accomplishment for the nation and for the world.

Smaller cities such as Canton have been able to shrug off the tendency to just let things happen, and have prepared for changes — and made them.

THE SKETCH at the upper left shows the junction of Washington St. and Broadway as it might look after renewal. By contrast, the photograph at the right is today's scene.

Under the planner's proposal,

City Faces Challenge Of Change

East Liverpool, 1985?

This Is A Present View Of The Washington St., Broadway Area Of The Business Section.

this site would be one of two major gateways to a shopping mall from which all auto traffic and parking would be handled. Designed to encourage leisurely strolls and an unhurried atmosphere, it would be marked with plenty of shrubs, low-level lighting and benches.

A central feature would be a restaurant in the round, as shown at the left. The plan contemplates that the L-shaped mall would extend from Jackson to Washington St. on 5th St. and on Washington between 5th and 6th Sts.

THE MALL would be a combination of pavement — a variety of brick, cobblestone and concrete in different designs — with a number of combinations of flowers, shrubs, trees and grassy plots in between.

The plan also calls for sculptures, fountains, children's play equipment and exhibition spaces.

The community may not look like this ten or twenty years hence.

But the basic recommendations for a general improvement in the appearance and accessibility to the downtown area, plus modernization and expansion of all facilities, are vital for the future of the city.

The long-awaited Highlandtown Lake project between Wellsville and Salinesville — now about 30 per cent complete — will not have any private cottage development on the state lands.

That information from Daniel C. Armbruster, chief of the Ohio Division of Wildlife, answers one of the questions I have heard asked most about the lake and wildlife area which should provide one of the finest recreations spots in Ohio.

Armbruster advised that no state property at the lake will be available for such development.

So, if you're interested in building in the lake vicinity, you will have to contact some of the landowners.

The state plans to keep the entire shoreline open so it will be available to all the public.

Armbruster also reports there are no cottages or lodges planned for construction by the state in the immediate future. The state does build cottages and lodges at some lakes.

IT IS ANTICIPATED that construction will be completed by next summer. Ground was broken for the earthen dam this summer. By driving along Route 39 out of Wellsville, you get an excellent view of the area to be covered by water.

If you are really interested in fishing, go out and look around. Take note, or even make a rough sketch of the terrain. Later, this will give you some idea of where to fish as you will know where the deep holes are located, along with ledges and dropoffs. I also understand there is some good hunting to be had in the area.

There will be approximately 170 acres under water. This leaves about 1,300 acres of land for public hunting. The lake also will attract waterfowl.

Armbruster commented that the state will stock the lake with largemouth bass, white crappies, bluegills, brown bullheads and possibly channel catfish.

Many people already fish the small lake on the state land, near Highlandtown. There are several nice bass in it. I have seen them.

When completed, Highlandtown will give Columbiana County three state-owned lakes, plus Beaver Creek State Park. We already have Guilford west of Lisbon and Zephernick along Route 172 west of New Garden.

FRED WOODROW of Fife Rd. near Wellsville got that sixth squirrel he was after. Fred, who is almost 70, hunts with a muzzle loader rifle.

He telephoned Tuesday morning to tell me he had shot it. Fred, very anxious to get six, will probably get several more.

A SALEM MAN caught a 27-inch walleye weighing seven pounds in the Salem Reservoir last week. It was one of the largest walleyes ever caught there.

Do You Remember . . .

Some nice catches of bass are being reported at Zephernick. Bass still are hitting in Beaver Creek. The afternoon is the best time. Natural bait, especially minnows, are good now.

Sometimes the best fish baits are fish themselves. Experts claim some of the best baits available are string on a stringer and forgotten. In fact, they say that first fish may be the key to a real catch.

Most game species have cannibalistic inclination when it involves their lesser cousins. They'll even take a nip at their own kin and kin.

Trout are particularly partial to bits and pieces of their brethren. Use a strip of clipped fin excites them in the rifle of a stream.

BASS AND PIKE seem to fall for a strip of belly cut from most any fish. Cast it into the weeds and skitter it back. Many times this is better than artificial lures. Sometimes you can make up a combination of both.

If you're not squeamish, the eye of a perch or sunfish is good. I've tried this and it really works. This is an old trick of Lake Erie fishermen.

When the perch are biting good and they run out of bait, the fishermen will begin taking the eyes out of the ones already caught.

Fish inventories at Mosquito Reservoir near Warren have revealed the best population of crappies and white bass ever recorded in these waters. Two test nets set by the Ohio Division of Wildlife three days took 1,187 crappies which averaged nine inches and 2,387 white bass which averaged nine and one-half inches and ranged up to 13 inches.

I plan on fishing Mosquito later this month, if I can get time off.

THE COOLING OF lake and stream waters in the fall always results in better muskellunge action, yet few fishermen take advantage of the improved situation.

Here's a good suggestion. Take a combined squirrel hunting and float fishing trip on your favorite stream. This can be done on Beaver Creek if you have a light, flat-bottomed boat or a canoe.

Do you have any tips, suggestions, unusual stories or questions? Drop me a letter or call me. I'll be glad to pass along the information.

The Lighter Side

There's a herd instinct in Americans that causes them to gather together at regular intervals to eat second-rate food at gourmet prices and then blow cigar smoke in each other's faces while they listen to that peculiar folk form of expression known as the after-dinner speech.

After the chicken a la king and the parfait and some inane humor by that other peculiar American institution, the toastmaster, there's a scraping of chairs and a flexing of tired girth muscles as the diners shift and turn expectant faces toward the podium, waiting to be entertained and informed.

For the next 20 to 30 minutes the visitor will tell them what they already know. If he does it in a monotone, occasionally losing his train of thought as he wrestles with heartburn,

HE DRAGS IN a joke by its heels at odd intervals, having read in a manual for after dinner speakers that he must break the monotony and recapture the attention of his audience every few minutes.

But if the poor fellow really is working off the cuff, he sometimes forgets the punchline at the crucial moment and winds up lamely.

The other type of amateur is a high-powered corporation president who is available without fee because his carefully prepared text generally contains a sales pitch that is designed to be almost subliminal. But it generally sticks out like a sunflower in a bed of pansies because it's the part he delivers with extra punch.

The corporation executive arrives with a 27-page text in an attache case and all goes well unless he shuffles the sheets at the crucial moment and fouls up the continuity.

He half reads, half delivers from memory a speech ghost written in his public relations department.

Sometimes there is a small note of surprise in the delivery when he comes across a phrase that he goes into the record as a bore not worth inviting again.

If he says the same things with dash and color and conviction — and a generous sprinkling of stories that are just a little too rough for one's maiden aunt and a touch too tame for the locker room — then the club's next bulletin talks of an "inspiring message" and "food for thought for all of us."

AFTER DINNER SPEAKERS fall into two broad classifications — the amateur who feels he has a message to convey and will appear anywhere, anytime for no fee, and the professional who rides the banquet circuit throughout the late fall and winter, delivering on cue one of the set speeches from his repertoire.

There's a third type who should be mentioned. He's the local resident appearing before his friends and neighbors because he really does have something to say and has volunteered against his better judgment to fill out somebody's program by saying it. He is not a defendant in this indictment.

The visiting amateur may discuss anything from pursuit of butterflies along the Amazon to a new method of spinning nylon cord for bicycle tires.

When the committee reaches into the grab bag for a name, it knows there may be some kind of commercial message woven into the text somewhere. But after all, he appears for nothing, doesn't he?

The earnest amateur works from notes, rather than a prepared script, and there's liable to be awkward pauses and an occasional faux pas as he attempts to straighten out a tangled train of thought.

Flags Restored In Ohio Guard Service Project

Restoration of military flags carried by Ohio units since the Mexican War is continuing at Columbus, Joseph Robbins of Globe St., commanding officer of the Buckeye Blues Brigade of the Union Army of Commemoration, reports.

Robbins said he recently met with Lt. Col. W. B. Haines, chairman of the Ohio National Guard project, and viewed the women at work on restoring the 528 flags, colors and guidons which have long been displayed in the State House round.

"The chemical content of the silk flags has caused deterioration, and the flags are being bonded to a single thickness of nylon with a transparent adhesive.

Cost of the work is estimated at over $20,000, of which $1,000 has already been provided by the Guard. The remainder is being sought from interested and patriotic individuals and organizations.

Contributions may be made with Haines, Room 11, State House Annex, Columbus, Ohio.

You And The Law

You are roaring down the freeway at 70 miles an hour when, suddenly, the driver in front of you brings his car to a screeching halt and begins backing up to the exit ramp he just missed. If your reaction time is good, you may avoid an accident. Otherwise, your morning newspaper may carry some new traffic fatalities.

Backing up on the freeway is a dangerous business. The recent Ohio legislature enacted a law prohibiting it, except in certain instances. The existing law on backing requires only "care" in backing on any public road.

UNDER the new law, effective Nov. 4, backing on a freeway is prohibited except in test areas, in the performance of public works or of official duties or as the result of an emergency caused by an accident or breakdown.

In another law, which was effective Aug. 9, passenger cars made after Jan. 1, 1966, to be sold, leased or rented in Ohio must have two seat belts installed in the front seat. Under the law these belts must meet certain standards set by automotive engineers. Each sale, lease or rental which violates the law will be treated as a separate offense.

There are two new laws affecting the sale of cars taken into custody by law enforcement officials.

As of Sept. 29, 1965, a car which has been impounded by police following a crime or police matter, is valued at less than $200 and is left unclaimed, may be sold at public auction 60 days after proper notice and title clearances are made. Previously, the car had to be left unclaimed for 90 days.

IN ANOTHER law, effective Nov. 5, police officials can impound any car which has been left on private property for more than 72 hours without permission of the property owner. The property owner must file the complaint. If unclaimed, the car may be sold at auction 60 days after notice has been given. Officials, however, must give notice to the auto's owner not less than 30 or more than 60 days before the date of the sale.

Chauffeurs badges will disappear on Sept. 1, 1966. Many persons are familiar with the metal tag worn by taxi drivers and others certifying they are a chauffeur as defined by Ohio law. The new law abolishes requirements for issuance and wearing of the badges, but requires that a photograph of the licensee appear on his operators license.

THINK

of your family name. You're pretty proud of it aren't you? It's a name you would like to honor through the years.

Well, there is only one way to make certain that it will. That is by preserving it on a family Monument, set and landscaped in your burial estate in an established, traditional cemetery. And by settling this important matter in advance of need, you will have the satisfaction of knowing that your name, and the family love it symbolizes, will be Memorialized forever exactly as you want it. Why not visit our newly stocked showrooms, where you can shop in privacy and comfort, and actually see what you select. If you live more than a visit away, we offer home counsel, without obligation, of course. In all probability you will find it highly profitable to learn more about the economy of our products and completeness of our service. Bishops See Benefit From Visit By Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Ecumenical Council bishops looked today for Pope Paul's U.N. trip to bring Roman Catholicism closer to the problems of the peace-hungry modern world.

The 2,200 prelates at the council went into their weekend recess as the Pope's Monday morning departure for the United Nations headquarters in New York drew closer.

Despite the recess, there was no letup in the hectic pace that has marked this fourth and final council session since it began Sept. 14.

The prelates were preparing for prayer and a special Mass in St. Peter's Basilica on Monday morning. The Pope will then be flying by jet over the Atlantic to U.N. headquarters in New York.

A perceptible mood of excitement was taking hold in council circles over the Pope's historic peace pilgrimage to the New World.

Members of various drafting commissions bore down on the assignments before them, scheduling work over the weekend.

The goal is to whip important documents into shape for final voting before the council closes in December.

The controversial text on marriage and birth control, part of the council's schema on world problems, was back in the hands of its drafters for suggested changes.

After three days of often clashing debate the bishops voted Friday to end general discussion of the topic and move on to other matters.

Now the drafters must revise the text to take into account the numerous criticisms leveled against it from conservative and progressive factions in the council. Neither group was satisfied with the text — for different reasons.

Conservatives generally wanted stronger statements to affirm traditional Church teachings on family planning. Progressives asked for more emphasis on scientific research into the entire realm of sex and more emphasis on the importance of conjugal love for the individual.

TV Show Plans Replacement For Actress Malone

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Dorothy Malone, recovering in a hospital here after heart and lung surgery, is being replaced for several weeks in her leading role in television's "Peyton Place" series.

Twentieth Century-Fox Studio spokesmen said another actress, as yet unnamed, would take Miss Malone's role as Constance McKenzie in the series. Miss Malone's physician said she should be able to resume the role in the filmed dramas within five or six weeks.

A Superior Court judge ruled that custody arrangements for Miss Malone's children will remain virtually unchanged during her illness.

Her ex-husband, actor Jacques Bergerac, retained his right to see their two daughters and also won an extra day of visitation privileges while Miss Malone is hospitalized.

Her attorneys had filed a petition asking that the French actor's visitation rights be suspended during Miss Malone's illness because she was afraid Bergerac might take the girls to France.

Miss Malone underwent surgery to remove blood clots from blood vessels leading to her lungs Sept. 21, and was in critical condition for more than a week. She was taken off the critical list Friday.

American Picked As King For Tiny Tribe Of Africans

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — King Edward I of the African tribe of Biffeche in the Republic of Senegal has never seen his country or his people — all 55 of them.

The king is Edward C. Schafer, 42, a St. Louis public relations consultant. He was elected king, with hereditary privileges, Jan. 20, 1963.

Schafer's path to the throne began in 1962 when he became chairman of a St. Louis committee to help the tribe. It started when a native on Saint-Louis, Senegal, told several American friends the Biffeche needed aid. The tribe was hoeing a hard row in a semi-arid country 10 miles north of Saint-Louis.

"That committee and the tribe now is called the Kingdom of Biffeche," said Schafer.

The committee of 15 St. Louisans began sending money and agricultural information to the tribe. The Biffeche, who never had a king before, decided to elect one.

He learned of his election visit.

through a Roman Catholic priest assigned to the tribe.

"The Biffeche are very serious about it," said Schafer. "They write for permission on just about anything from expanding farm production to declaring a holiday."

Oak Glen Defends Goal Again In 7-0 Win Over Triads

WHEELING — Oak Glen's superb defensive forces, which threw a surprise shutout at East Liverpool last week, closed the doors to the end zone again Friday night to score a 7-0 victory over a respected Triadelphia team here at Island Stadium.

Coach Bob Starkey's Golden Bears also recorded their third straight victory and fourth in five starts.

An 85-yard march in the second quarter and a gallant goal line stand in the same period proved the turning points in the contest.

Marv Six, back in the groove after an early season injury, banged through the Triadelphia line from the two-yard line with 11:23 remaining in the second period.

Danny Clark booted the conversion through the uprights for the seventh point.

Six Gets Lone TD In 2nd Period; Bears Stretch Streak To 3

Oak Glen's scoring drive was launched from the 15-yard line where Clark had intercepted a Steve Savage pass.

Clark and Six alternated carries to eat up most of the yardage on the ground, while quarterback Tom Thayer, hero of last week's victory over the Potters, flipped a 25-yard aerial to junior end John Zelinsky to feature the sustained march.

Following the only touchdown, Oak Glen failed to get inside the Triadelphia 30 and focused all of its attention on defense.

Late in the second period the Golden Bear defensive line was called upon to stiffen, and did.

The Triads had driven to the five-yard line and had a first down at this point. Triadelphia could get only to the one in four plays as the Oak Glen line held and the half ended.

Triadelphia's other scoring threat came late in the fourth quarter on a march to the Oak Glen 16. Thayer ended the final threat by intercepting a pass in the end zone.

Savage, the Triads sophomore passer, filled the air with 33 passes and completed 10 for 128 yards. On the ground, Triadelphia gained a net of only 50 yards.

Oak Glen attempted six passes, completed two and had four intercepted.

The Bears picked up a net of 121 yards rushing and produced seven first downs with the majority coming on the touchdown drive.

The defeat leaves Triadelphia with a 1-3 record.

Oak Glen has given up only one touchdown in the three straight victories, which came after losing its only game of the season to Wellsville.

The Golden Bears return to action Saturday, playing an afternoon game at 2 at Follansbee.

Raiders Tie Contest In 4th Period

Stanton Local and Wayne, two unbeaten Class A powers, battled to a 12-12 draw before an overflow crowd Friday night at the Stanton gridiron.

In one of the hardest fought contests seen on the Stanton turf, the Red Raiders battled from behind twice to earn the deadlock.

BOTH TEAMS entered the game with unblemished 3-0 records. After a scoreless first quarter, Stanton appeared on its way to No. 4 when the talented Doug Hamilton dodged his way for 18 yards to the one yard line, but was tackled and fumbled, with Wayne recovering.

The visitors took the pigskin and proceeded to march 99 yards for the first touchdown, which came on a 16-yard pass play from Tom Henderson to Senate Logsdon. Henderson attempted the all-important conversion, but was run out of bounds.

BEHIND 6-0 at halftime, Stanton rallied its forces and put six points on the scoreboard early in the third period. Hamilton raced 39 yards for the touchdown that evened the count at this point.

Larry Spires faked a kick and ran with the ball but was stopped short of two-point territory in the conversion bid.

Later in the third quarter, Wayne bounced back when Cornell Smith shook loose and rambled 61 yards for the TD. The conversion failed when Wayne attempted to pass.

EARLY in the fourth quarter, Stanton's Elmer Tice tied the game a second time for the Raiders with a 19-yard jaunt to pay dirt.

With the scoreboard reading 12-12, Stanton lined up for a placement attempt by Norm Grimm. But a bad pass from center allowed Wayne defenders to smother the effort.

The remainder of the fourth period was played between the 30's.

The first downs showed Wayne with 13 and Stanton with 10.

Chicago Seen In Best Shape For 2nd Spot

By MURRAY CHASS

Associated Press Sports Writer

Anyone for seconds?

Al Lopez, who already has more than enough to pass around the table, is standing in line for more.

Lopez' Chicago White Sox whipped Kansas City 6-1 Friday night, moving into a tie for second place in the American League with Baltimore.

The Orioles split a doubleheader with Cleveland, losing 3-2 after winning the opener 2-0.

Chicago and Baltimore each have two games left, but the White Sox have the edge since they play last-place Kansas City while the Orioles meet the Indians, who still have a chance for fourth.

By finishing in the runner-up spot behind the champion Minnesota Twins, Lopez would extend his second-place finish streak to three straight seasons, one short of his record in the majors.

It also would give him 10 second-place finishes in 15 seasons of major league managing.

There were no other games in the American League, rain washing out Detroit at Washington.

In the National League, Milwaukee trimmed Los Angeles 2-0, Cincinnati trampled San Francisco 17-2, Pittsburgh edged Chicago 2-1 and Houston beat St. Louis 4-2. Rain stopped Philadelphia and New York.

The White Sox went into the eighth inning tied with the Athletics 1-1. But Tommy John, who pitched a four-hitter, led off the eighth with a single. Chicago eventually loaded the bases and Pete Ward cracked a two-run single.

Ron Hansen drove in another run with a sacrifice fly, and Ken Berry added another two-run single.

Baltimore won the opener of its doubleheader behind the two-hit pitching of Dave McNally. Bringing his record to 11-6, McNally didn't allow a hit after the fourth inning.

The Orioles scored in the fourth on a bases-loaded walk to Jerry Adair and in the eighth on Brooks Robinson's single.

The Indians came back in the nightcap as Vic Davalillo rapped three singles. Dick Howser singled across the first run and scored the third when catcher Dick Brown dropped a throw to the plate on Leon Wagner's single.

Koufax Could Clinch Flag Today; Reds Rip Giants, 17-2

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer
It would be fitting if Sandy Koufax clinched the National League pennant for the Los Angeles Dodgers today. But he may not get the opportunity.

Koufax, whose 25 victories have led Los Angeles' drive for the pennant, is in a position to nail it down for the Dodgers, who clinched at least a tie for their third flag in seven years despite a 2-0 loss to Milwaukee Friday night.

The Dodger game will start one hour and 15 minutes after the second-place San Francisco Giants take the field against the Cincinnati club that mauled them 17-2 Friday night.

The time factor is such that if the Giants lose before Los Angeles finishes its game, the Dodgers would have the pennant clinched before Koufax had an opportunity to wrap it up.

As the race now stands, with the Dodgers leading by two games and only two remaining, either a San Francisco loss or a Los Angeles victory ends the struggle. The best the Giants can hope for is a tie by winning their games while the Dodgers lose twice, thus forcing a play-off.

Koufax will start against the Braves' 24-game winner, Tony Cloninger. The Giants will send Ron Herbel, 11-9, against Jim O'Toole, 3-9.

In other games Friday night, Pittsburgh edged the Chicago Cubs 2-1 and Houston defeated St. Louis 4-2.

The Chicago White Sox moved into a tie with Baltimore for second place in the American League by beating Kansas City 6-1 while the Orioles split with Cleveland. Baltimore won the opener 2-0 but the Indians took the nightcap 3-2.

The Dodgers, who had won 13 games in a row, could have clinched it Friday night by winning one more, but the Braves' Denny Lemaster stood in their way. Lemaster, winning only his seventh game against 13 defeats, pitched out of his only jam in the first inning and went on to set the Dodgers down on five hits.

Claude Osteen, now 15-15, matched Lemaster until the Braves broke through for an unearned sixth inning run.

Felipe Alou led off with a walk and raced to third as catcher John Roseboro picked up Mack Jones' bunt and fired the ball past third base. Osteen walked Hank Aaron intentionally, then struck out Joe Torre and got Gene Oliver to rap a sharp grounder to third baseman Jim Gilliam.

Gilliam, however, threw high to Jim Lefebvre in a try for a force play at second base, and Alou scored when Lefebvre's toss to first base was too late for an out there.

Alou drove in the Braves' other run with an infield single in the seventh inning.

It was no contest at San Francisco after the first five batters had swung away at Bob Bolin. Pete Rose singled, and one out later, Vada Pinson singled. Frank Robinson and Gordy Coleman then hit consecutive homers for a 4-0 lead and Sammy Ellis had more than enough working room as he posted his 22nd victory by scattering eight hits.

Before the game was over, Rose and Deron Johnson also had homered for the Reds while

San Francisco Manager Herman Franks called on eight pitchers in an attempt to stem Cincinnati's 21-hit assault.

Tom Haller homered for the Giants and Len Gabrielson stroked three of their eight hits off Ellis.

The Pirates won it in the ninth against the Cubs on Jim Pagan's two-run single with the bases loaded.

Doubles by Chuck Harrison, Rusty Staub and winning pitcher Robin Roberts helped the Astros to a three-run second inning that got the job done against the Cardinals.

House OK's Aid Bill, Senate's Action Slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has approved a compromise $3,218,000,000 foreign aid appropriation and quick Senate approval is expected early next week.

The bill cleared the House after a futile Republican-led fight over a Senate-sponsored provision that gives the President discretion on the cutting of aid to countries that ship material to North Viet Nam.

The original House version contained a flat prohibition against aid to those countries and a GOP effort to retain that provision was defeated 174 to 164. The final House vote on the measure was 204 to 127.

Playful Pup Removes Tooth Of Youngster, 9

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — A dog may be man's best friend, but Randy Fonda, 9, isn't sure a canine is a kid's best buddy.

Randy was playing with a three-month-old puppy named Chow when the dog jumped up and came down with one of Randy's lower teeth.

Pro-Am Play Has 72 Teams

CINCINNATI (AP)—Seventy-two teams tee off today in the sixth annual U. S. Pro-Amateur Golf Tournament at the Losantiville Country Club where first place for the professionals will be worth $3,500.

The $25,000 tournament is the richest ever held in Cincinnati and a top field of both amateurs and professionals is at hand.

The field was completed late Friday as 35 out-of-town teams vied for 15 places in the tournament. Ross Carley of Marion, Ohio, and Robert Seyler of Mansfield, Ohio, led the contestants with a four-under-par 32-34-66 over Losantiville's 6,460-yard layout.

Other top finishers included Gregg Guttman and Dick Flockenzier, both of Marion, Ohio, and John Surveges and Dave Schumaker, both of Fort Wayne, Ind. Both pairs finished with a 67.

Once the tournament gets under way, through, chances are the team headed by former PGA champion Bobby Nichols will be among the leaders.

Other top pros here include Doug Sanders, who has won more than $60,000 this year; Gay Brewer, winner of the 1965 Seattle Open; Former PGA champion Dow Finsterwald and Homero Blascan, an outstanding rookie on the pro circuit.

Also on hand are last year's champions, professional Mike Krak of Darien, Conn., and Lew Oehming of Chattanooga, Tenn. Sanders' amateur partner will be Gregg Pizer of Los Angeles while Nichols teamed up with Jim Schloss of Cincinnati.

Dale Morey, a Walker cupper from High Point, N. C., will be Brewer's partner. Finsterwald is teaming up with Bob Litter of Athens, Ohio, and Blancas' partner is Billy Joe Patton of Morgantown, N. C., a many-time Walker Cup player.

Jack Nicklaus, golf's leading money winner this year, has been on the title team three times—twice before he turned pro. He is not playing this year because of the Canadian Cup matches.

Chaucer Competes With TV On Ohio State Campus Sites

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The lively works of a poet who has been dead for nearly 600 years are giving today's top television shows a battle for ratings at Ohio State University.

The fight for prime time began when the university, armed with a space-age computer and magnetic tape, put the works of English poet Geoffrey Chaucer and other notable writers in its campus listening center which is designed to bring recorded instruction to students.

"We found that our students would prefer to brush up on their languages than watch television," says Dean of Men John T. Bonner.

The center is activated by a computer when a student dials it from one of 269 telephone stations on campus. The computer interprets the dialed number, plays the recorded selection desired, rewinds and cues itself for the next call.

Some selections include Chaucer's poetry and assigned oral exercises in Chinese. Computer lessons are used mostly for language courses so students can get practice in a foreign tongue. The system also is used in music appreciation courses.

What was the television room in the student union is now a listening post. "The TV set when I last saw it was shoved over into a far corner of the room," Bonner said.

Hoffa Asks New Trial For Jury-Tampering

CINCINNATI (AP)—James R. Hoffa's attorneys are seeking a new trial for the Teamsters Union president on the grounds that his rights to counsel were violated by the use of a government informer during Hoffa's trial at Nashville three years ago.

The attorneys filed a petition Friday with the Sixth Circuit U. S. Court of Appeals asking for a rehearing of Hoffa's appeal on a jury-tampering conviction.

Newly discovered evidence cited in the brief deals with Robert Vic, a former Nashville policeman employed as a special investigator during Hoffa's Nashville trial on charges of conspiracy to violate the Taft-Hartley labor law.

Jews Throughout World To Observe Yom Kippur

From sundown Tuesday until sundown Wednesday, Reform, Conservative and Orthodox Jews throughout the world will observe Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, the most sacred and solemn of the ancient Hebrew holidays.

The observance is one which has remained unbroken for more than 2,000 years.

Yom Kippur, the last of the high holy day period known as the "Days of Awe," is universally observed by all branches of Judaism by fasting from sundown to sundown, by prayer and by a searching reappraisal of the individual's behavior, in his relationship to his fellow man, and to his God.

It is the culmination of 10 days of intense self-examination, during which the individual Jew examines the year just past, atones for his shortcomings in relation to God and man, and expresses his hopes for strength and regeneration for the year to come.

Yom Kippur is described in the Bible as the "Sabbath of Sabbaths" and is for all Jews the holiest day in the year.

The opening liturgy, sung during Yom Kippur Eve, is called the "Kol Nidre," a prayer for forgiveness written in the 7th or 8th Century. The melody which accompanies it, one of the most haunting and beautiful of all liturgical works, has its origin in the music of medieval Germany.

The "Kol Nidre" (which means "all vows") is a plea for God's forgiveness of human fallibility should man fail to keep the promises made to God; for the broken promises made to one's fellow man.

The Yom Kippur service continues throughout the day.

Toward the end, there is a special prayer of mourning for the dead.

As the sun sets, the holiday ends with a final blast from the shofar, the ram's horn used for thousands of years in the observance of Rosh Hashanah (the Jewish New Year) and Yom Kippur.

Oakland Group Kills Project At Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Pa. — A proposed $250 million research and industrial park inside Panther Hollow of Schenley Park which drew nationwide attention two years ago was cancelled Friday by the Oakland Corporation.

High construction costs and unsatisfactory prospects for tenants were cited for the scrapping of the project, despite scaling down of the plan.

The corporation will now devote its efforts toward renewal of the Oakland area, a spokesman said. The board decided a new chairman will not be named to replace Edward Litchfield, recently resigned chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh.

Steele Details Planning Aim

The work of the Municipal Planning Commission was reviewed by George Steele, a member, during the meeting of the Lions Club Friday afternoon at the Travelers Hotel.

Steele stressed the commission is not a private organization but a public one and encouraged residents to attend the meetings the second Monday of each month at City Hall.

He pointed out the business area development plan submitted by Carroll V. Hill Associates of Columbus last week is "just a proposal." It must be reviewed by the commission and then submitted to City Council for final approval, he explained.

Steele was introduced by Pat DiPasquale, program chairman. Edward Custer, vice president, presided.

Custer reminded members the Board of Directors will meet Monday night and the annual light bulb sale will be held Oct. 11-13.

Actor's Son Put Into Custody Of Mother By Court

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The long, bitter struggle between actor Marlon Brando and actress Anna Kashfi over custody of their young son has taken another turn with Miss Kashfi this time winning custody.

In awarding custody of Christian Devi, 7, to the 30-year-old actress, Superior Court Judge A. A. Scott said Friday:

"If this lady is left to lead her own life with her own son and without fights and obnoxious matters put in her way, she will be a good mother."

Judge Scott said that if Brando and Miss Kashfi, who are divorced, cannot agree on the actor's visitation days, the court would make the orders.

Custody of the boy had been awarded to Brando's sister, Mrs. Frances Loving of Mundelein, Ill., last February after lengthy court proceedings.

The west coast of Greenland between Disko and Melville Bays is the spawning ground for most of the icebergs of the North Atlantic. The annual crop of icebergs on this coast is estimated at about 7,500.

Auto, Motorbike Figure In Mishap

An auto and a 1965 motorbike were damaged in a collision late Friday afternoon at Lincoln and St. Clair Aves., police reported.

The crash involved a 1962 car operated by Paul V. Baxter, 61, of 815 McKinnon Ave., who was making a left turn from Lincoln onto St. Clair, and the north-bound motorbike operated by James Leo Nentwick, 34, of Wellsville R. D. 1 and owned by Westley Fulmer of 1031 Florence St.

Baxter said he had waited for traffic to clear and didn't see the motorbike until it hit the front end of his auto.

Nentwick told police he started to head up Lincoln Ave. when Baxter pulled in front of him. Rather than hit the auto head-on, Nentwick said he flipped the "bike" on its side and slid under the front end of the car. The splash pan on the auto and the gearbox on the "bike" were damaged, police said.

Frank Wolfe, 1709 Pennsylvania Ave., reported to police Friday at 10 p. m. that the left rear of his auto was damaged by a hit-skip driver while parked on Pennsylvania Ave. near Oakland Ave.

Coming Down

London Bridge may not be falling down, but it is sinking into the Thames.

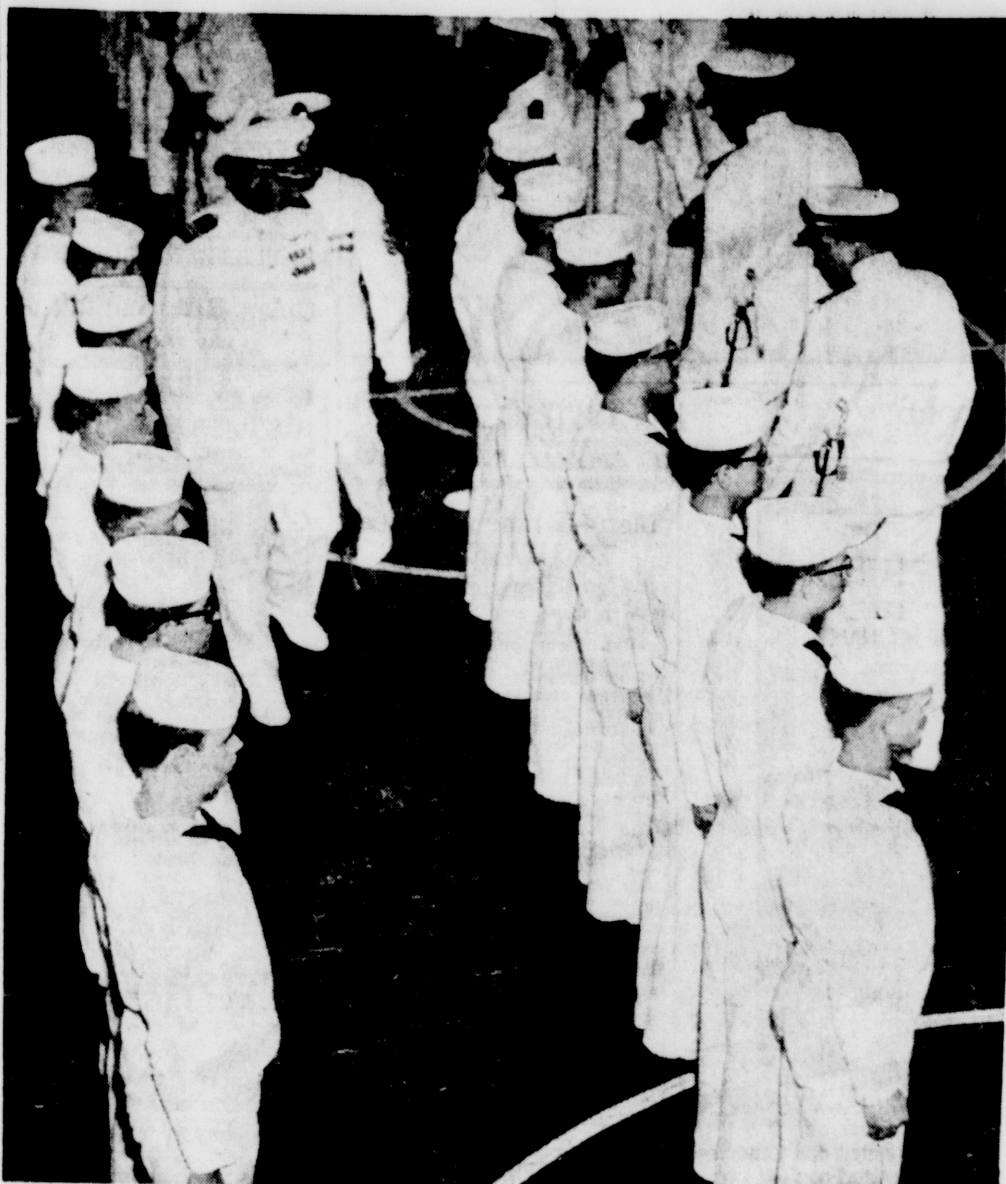

There have been many London Bridges at the same general site. The medieval span was one of the great sights of Europe. Houses and shops marched across the stone span. Its chapel was dedicated to St. Thomas of Canterbury. Battles were fought hand to hand on the bridge and spikes on the fortified gates were decorated with the severed heads of such distinguished "traitors" as Sir Thomas More.

The present graceful span with five low arches was built from 1825-31. In recent years the bridge has been cracking and settling into the river bed at the relatively rapid rate of one inch every eight years.

Since the bridge bears the brunt of rush-hour bus and automobile traffic into the heart of financial London, City of London authorities have decided that London Bridge should be torn down and replaced, rather than shored up and patched.

Sentimental Londoners will feel a deep sense of loss when the dark-granite blocks are dismantled.

Reserve Group Inspected

Tri-State Area Naval Reservists stood at attention Thursday night at the Reserve Training Center at Steubenville during the annual inspection of Surface Division 4-108 (M).

There are 152 enlisted men and 10 officers in the district unit in which men from East Liverpool, Chester and elsewhere serve. Lt. Commander James Allen of Weirton is commanding officer.

Conducting the inspection Thursday night were Comdr. H. C. Bearden, director of Naval Reserve Manpower of the Fourth District, Philadelphia; Lt. Comdr. J. E. Birchall of Mansfield, and Lt. R. W. Bei-ber, assistant surface program officer of the Fourth Naval District.

The area unit holds drills Mondays for reserves who have been on active duty and on Wednesdays for reserves not yet on active duty.

Young men may enlist in the Naval Reserves while seniors in high school.

'Should Be Home By Christmas'

Line Of Action Being Set, Bishop Says Of 'Council'

This is another in a series of reports from the Vatican by Bishop John King Mussio of the Diocese of Steubenville.

By BISHOP MUSSIO

If you recall, at the close of the last session, the Declaration of Religious Liberty was not voted upon. This was the first business on the calendar this session.

There were many speakers. The opposition came from some of the countries where Church and State have a working agreement, but even there many bishops favored the declaration.

After four or five days of speeches, the Consilium Fathers were asked if they wished to cut off the talks. It was a rising vote and all rose with the exception of about a hundred bishops. This indicated that the overwhelming majority of bishops was ready and eager to vote. But, even then, there was some maneuvering to hinder the vote.

SOME SAID that voting on this schema would cause a great division in the Council. Pope Paul placed before the Council a Proposition on Religious Liberty, asking whether or not the corrected text of the schema was approved by the bishops as a basis for the final Declaration to be made when all corrections had been inserted. This was practically a vote on the Declaration itself. Out of 2,222 Fathers voting, 1,997 voted in favor, 224 against.

This did not surprise me. One could feel the urgency of the bishops to settle this matter once and for all. I proves that the spirit of Pope John is very much alive today. It proves that the men who will govern the church in future years are totally convinced of the basic logic of this declaration. It will not be lip service they give but the conviction that the truth of Christ is not reached by force but comes from being freely loved for its own sake.

During the debate on religious liberty, voting was going on of schemas debated at previous sessions. In most cases whose schemas were returned to the various commissions which had prepared them with directions for modifications, changes, corrections and revisions.

SOME OF these schemas are: Revelation, laity, pastoral duties of bishops, religious life, Christian education, priestly formation and declaration on Jews. There is no further debate on these questions, just a vote in favor or against the amended text. The text of the Revelation schema has been voted favorably, with only 56 contrary votes. Some further amendments were made which probably will be incorporated into the final document.

The schema on Church in Modern World is now being debated. During the debate, voting is taking place on the corrected text of the Apostolate of the Laity.

After the debate on the modern world schema, discussion begins on missionary activity of the Church and priestly life and ministry. Considering the timetable being followed, matters can be finished by December. The business-like efficiency of this Council should have been operative in the other sessions. It might have made this fourth session unnecessary.

I think I'll be home for Christmas. Even the Council Hall looks as though it has had enough. The carpeting is getting that worn look, the seats seem harder, the drapes look wilted, the coffee shops less appealing.

But one thing is certain, this final session is going to do everything Pope John and Pope Paul expect the Council to do. A line of action is being set. And if followed in the years to come, it will give the people of God an awareness of the pertinence of the word of Christ to their peace and dignity.

How Can I?

ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I preserve leftover putty for a long time?

A.—Roll your putty into balls and drop these into a jar half-full of water. Add enough water to cover the putty, screw on the top of the jar, and your putty will stay in a workable condition for months. When you prepare to use it again, pat it dry with a cloth.

Q.—The narrow plastered strips between the tiles on my bathroom walls are dirty and unsightly. How can I re-whiten them?

A.—Scrub clean with a stiff brush. Mix white tile cement and water to a paste. Rub into the soiled joints, but wipe the tile clean after putting on the paste.

Q.—Is there any way I can repair a plastic watch crystal that has become loosened through wear?

A.—This can be refitted tightly by applying colorless fingernail polish around the edge of the crystal—as many coats of polish as necessary to increase the diameter of the crystal to the necessary size. After the last coat has dried, the edge is sanded lightly for a smooth fit.

Senate Sets Debate Over 14-B Repeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate battle over 14B starts Monday. It could go on for days or weeks.

Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act permits states to ban labor contracts which require workers to join a union to hold their jobs. A House-passed bill would repeal that section, thus nullifying laws of 19 states which now forbid the union shop.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana cleared the way Friday for the start of lengthy debate on the issue. He made a motion that the Senate take up the bill on Monday, saying he acted "so that everyone will be prepared."

The motion to take up the bill, as well as the bill itself, can be debated at length. Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois has served notice that both will be, if necessary. Teams of speakers who oppose repeal have been organized for the extended discussion, which Dirksen declines to call a filibuster.

Examination Set Up On Meter Maid Posts

The Municipal Civil Service Commission today scheduled an examination to establish an eligibility list for meter maids on Thursday, Oct. 21, at 7 p. m. at City Hall.

The commission acted after Safety-Service Director Robert E. Vodrey requested an eligibility list to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Mrs. Ruth Fetty. The post pays $1.72 hourly.

The deadline for applications is noon, Oct. 16, and the notarized forms must be accompanied by a $1 fee and a small photograph of the applicant. The application blanks are available at the mayor's office in City Hall or from members of the commission.

Applicants must be between 23 and 35 and a resident of East Liverpool for six months prior to the examination.

Man's Hospitalized After Falling In Alley

An Ambridge man, charged with intoxication, is in "fair" condition today at City Hospital with facial lacerations received when he fell in Apple Alley near the Community Parking Lot late Friday afternoon.

Edward Novak, 38, was taken to the hospital by Patrolmen Karl W. Samples and L. E. Richard after police were advised that he had fallen while walking in the alley. Officers said he was bleeding badly from the facial cuts.

Novak will be arraigned in Municipal Court after his release from the hospital.

Bringing Up A Family

By Dr. GARRY MYERS

Disobedient Son Annoys Family

When a child is disobedient or aggressive and constantly annoying the rest of the family, it may be easier to help him improve his ways then if he were shy, withdrawing and preferred to live in a shut-in world of his own. Apropos of this is a letter written by a mother in California of her son, 11: "There are four children in our family, Paul, eleven; Margaret, nine; John, six, and Linda, five.

"Our concern right now is with Paul. After consultation with his teacher and principal, we held Paul back in the first grade. The teacher said he was quite immature and since he is small for his age, this would be the wisest step. He is just out of the fourth grade now and is doing very well at school.

Paul is extremely shy around other children his own age and seems to prefer younger ones. He didn't make the Little League team but serves as bat-boy. He never pays any attention to the ball game but is apparently in a world all his own.

HE ENJOYS playing army with his toy soldiers and will do so for hours. Paul seems to be hypnotized by TV and it is next to impossible to get an answer from him when he's so engaged. He always talks about everyone being better than he is, whether it's in sports or school or whatever.

"Is there anything we can do to help him realize his own potential? How can he be more self-confident around others?"

My reply in part: Try to attract other children of his age to your home—one at first and more later. Then study your child and guide him so he can be a better playmate.

He enjoys younger children because he feels superior to them and does not have to compete on equal terms. I hope Dad spends a lot of time with this boy, going to games and fishing with him, having him lunch downtown occasionally, making things with him, often taking a few other boys along. It would be wonderful if he could acquire skills others of his age would admire.

APPARENTLY he spends excessive time looking at TV. Limit his viewing to half an hour a day.

Burned Girl Dies Before Father's Hospital Arrival

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — Marine Staff Sgt. Frank Von Rinteln flew to Santa Ana from Okinawa after learning that his 6-year-old daughter was critically burned.

Ten minutes before Sgt. Von Rinteln arrived at the hospital Friday, his daughter Barbara went into a seizure. By the time he reached her bedside, she had died.

Said the sergeant: "I don't know what to do. I can't cry. I just feel numb."

Von Rinteln, 33, and his wife, Maryo, 30, live in nearby San Clemente. They have five other daughters and a son.

Investigators said Barbara and her sisters were playing with their mother's clothing Wednesday. A fire somehow started and the child was burned over 90 per cent of her body.
